CLASS - 2 RECITATION WORKSHEET(POEM 5)
TOPIC : A DRAGONFLY

SYNOPSIS :

The poet Eleanor Farjeon describes about one of the cycles of four seasons. The poet also shows here the freedom of a dragonfly.

When summer sets in, the heat and long days make people tired and sleepy.

At this moment a dragonfly came and settled on the poet's hand. It's body was blue in colour and it seemed as if it was joined by many parts. Its wings were so thin and transparent that it looked like glass. When it sat on the poet's hand, it lit up her finger, with the light from its body. The dragonfly was comfortable on the poet's finger as if it was sitting on a blade of grass.
