

CLASS V
SUBJECT: ENGLISH LITERATURE
TOPIC: SUNDAYS (POEM)
WORKSHEET

SYNOPSIS:

‘Sundays’ is a short sweet poem written with child like innocence by none other than the noble laureate Rabindranath Tagore. It reflects the love that children have for weekends and the sheer dislike for the weekdays. The poet addresses the days as persons and compares them to human beings having human qualities and feelings. Sundays is a poem one can identify themselves with.

I. FILL IN THE BLANKS:

- i. The weekdays come so and
- ii. To go back home they
- iii. That she stays the time she should.
- iv. No child can stand such and
- v. There’s with her lit up.

II. TRUE OR FALSE:

- i. The poet loves week days.
- ii. The poet believes weekdays come very quickly.
- iii. The poet believes Sundays end very quickly.
- iv. The poet accuses weekends of having very dull and long faces.

III. MAKE SENTENCES:

- i. Trudging
- ii. Dull
- iii. Travel
- iv. Unkind

Do the following exercises from the text book:

- ◇ 1 A
- ◇ 1 B - a, b
- ◇ 2- i, iii.