- An opening sentence to set the tone of the review, giving an overall feel of the work
- Read through the given outline and select the points that can be grouped together. Bracket them together and divide the points into suitable paragraphs.
- Each given point must be included and amplified (expanded, elaborated, explained with examples)
- While elaborating each point, the specified length for the exercise (300 words) must be maintained.
- Add more information only if you feel it is absolutely pertinent (very important to explain a point)
- Make use of short, simple sentences so as to avoid too many grammatical errors.
- Make sure to cover all the points mentioned in the question.
