

Welland Gouldsmith School

Geography Worksheet

Class-3

India- The Land Surface

- The type of land surface of India differs from place to place.
- The high mountains in the north are called the Himalayas.
- The large plains in the northern India are called the northern fertile plains.
- The southern part of India is a plateau.
- In southern India, there are narrow, coastal plains along the sea coast.
- A major part of Rajasthan is a sandy desert.

Q1and Q2 to be done in the exercise book.

Q1. Answer the following questions:

- a) What is a mountain? Give one example.
- b) What is a hill? Give one example.
- c) What is a peninsula?
- d) What is a plateau? Give an example.
- e) What is a desert? Give an example.
- f) Name the waterbodies that surrounds the southern part of India.
- g) What is an island? Give an example.

Q2. On a physical map of India colour and mark the following: (Refer map on page 29 and stick the map on the blank side of your exercise book).

- a) The Himalayan Range b) Northern Plains c) Great Indian Desert d) Plateau Region e) Coastal Plains f) Arabian Sea, Bay of Bengal, Indian Ocean
- h) Lakshadweep Islands h) Andaman Nicobar Islands

Assignment- To be done in the text book Page 33 Ex-A,C Page 34 Ex D,E,F